ranjeh concludes talks with Assad

AMASCUS, Aug. 19 (Ag)—Former Lebanese President Suleiman Franjeh talks with President Assad Saturday and for home after a two-day visit to the Syrian coastal of Latakia.

Official sources said the talks with the political and military situation in Lebanon obstacles preventing the from reasserting its authority over all parts of the country.

Speaking to reporters before he left, Franjeh said he was satisfied that the main Syrian-Arab peace force in Lebanon was attacking Christian and said Syria's intervention had only been to Lebanon.

President Assad is the only one for every Arab citizen. I wish all Arab officials followed the Syrian example," he added.

It was Franjeh's first visit to Syria since the attack on the summer resort of Franjeh, last June, in which his son, his wife and three-year-old daughter were killed with 33 of their supporters.

He also said he had been sent by Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim to talk to Lebanese officials on the current situation in Southern Lebanon and implementation of the U.N. resolution which established the peacekeeping force.

The resolution provided for withdrawal of Israeli forces which invaded Southern Lebanon last March and restoration of Lebanese authority in the area.

Urquhart said there were some serious problems which Waldheim was trying to solve. Urquhart told reporters: "I had useful talks today with President Sarkis and was acquainted with his very clear viewpoint regarding these problems."

Urquhart earlier had talks with Defense and Foreign Minister Fuad Butros, attended by General Elassi Silasvuo, chief of U.N. forces in the Middle East, General Emanuel Erskine, commander of the U.N. Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL), Lebanese Army commander Victor Khoury and Lebanon's U.N. Ambassador Ghassan Tueni.

The six-month mandate of the peacekeeping force will expire Sept. 18.

Asked whether failure to deploy the Lebanese Army in South Lebanon would block a renewal of the U.N. mandate, Butros said "the army wants to go to the South. We are undertaking the necessary efforts so that the army may enter the South."

"I see no obstacle which would prevent the renewal of the mandate," he said.

After talks with Riad Kuwait accepts Sudan invitation to summit

KUWAIT, Aug. 19 (R)—Kuwait said Saturday it has accepted Sudan's invitation to an Arab League Council meeting in Khartoum aimed at bringing together Arab states including those opposed to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's Middle East policies.

Kuwait's Deputy Premier and Foreign Minister, Sheikh Sabah Al-Ahmad Al-Sabah, told reporters after meeting Arab League Secretary-General Mahmoud Riad that his country had agreed to attend the Sept. 12 meeting.

Riad, who is seeking support for the Sudanese move, also had separate talks with the Ruler of Kuwait, Sheikh Jaber Al-Ahmad Al-Sabah.

He told reporters Friday night that four Arab countries — Lebanon, Morocco, Sudan and the United Arab Emirates (UAE) — had so far agreed to attend.

Saturday he said that although no response had yet been received from the anti-Sadat group — Syria, Algeria, South Yemen, Libya and the Palestine Liberation Organization — he thought they would attend.

He noted that they had said earlier they were ready to participate in Arab League meetings anywhere except in Cairo, the League's headquarters.

Riad said he hoped the Khartoum meeting would result in a minimum degree of understanding among the Arab states and end their divisions.

But he added that he did not believe the time was ripe for an Arab summit meeting because "inter-Arab differences remain unchanged."

Mass demonstrations were held in major towns in Iran Saturday in support of the Shah after 10 days of fresh anti-government disturbances.

The occasion was the 25th anniversary of the downfall of Premier Muhammad Mossadegh, who tried unsuccessfully to oust the monarch from power in 1953.

In Tehran, Prime Minister Jamshid Amuzegar led a parade of several hundred thousand supporters of the Shah.

Addressing a mass rally, the prime minister said that since 1953, per capita income has been increased 8 times, foreign exchange reserves increased 140 times, number of students increased five times, number of vehicles increased 11 times, number of locally manufactured automobiles increased 150 times, cement production increased 20 times, wheat production doubled, cotton production tripled and tea production increased by two and half times.

"These are examples of the achievements of Iran during one generation despite the aggressive attitudes of a foreign power," he said. He did not name the foreign power, but the Iranian government has often accused the Soviet Union of causing trouble.

Workers, soldiers and government supporters gathered for a rally in the central city of Isfahan, which has been under martial law for the last eight days following bloody anti-Shah riots.

Parades and demonstrations for the Shah and against what were officially termed "anti-state elements" took place in most main towns, and no incidents of violence were reported.

Authorities in Isfahan announced that a night time curfew, imposed at the same time as martial law last week, was being relaxed by one hour from Saturday night and would now start at 9 p.m.

Isfahan residents said the city was quiet, and it appeared that the wave of rioting, which hit more than a dozen towns a week ago, had died down for the present.

Rioters, whom the government said were incited by Communists and religious extremists opposed to the Shah, left a trail of banks, cinemas and restaurants gutted in the disturbances, in which 15 people were officially reported killed.

Parades and demonstrations for the Shah and against what were officially termed "anti-state elements" took place in most main towns, and no incidents of violence were reported.

Egypt drafts position paper for Camp David peace summit

CAIRO, Aug. 19 (Agencies)—Foreign ministry experts Saturday began drafting a position paper on Egypt's policy for next month's Middle East peace summit at Camp David, official sources said.

The sources said that the document would be prepared within the framework of the Egyptian demand for an Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territories and the restoration of the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people.

The sources said the paper would take into consideration the various meetings and contacts with all parties since President Sadat's visit to Jerusalem last November.

The Camp David summit, which will bring together President Sadat, President Carter and Israeli Premier Menachem Begin, is to open Sept. 5.

The minister of state for foreign affairs, Dr. Boutros

Boutros Ghali, Saturday met American Ambassador Hermann Eilts to discuss arrangements for the summit. Dr. Ghali said he meeting was part of "political arrangements for the summit," but did not elaborate.

In Tel Aviv Begin said in a message published Saturday that he "shares" Carter's hopes for Middle East peace as they approach the summit meeting.

Begin's message was sent to Carter Friday in reply to greetings from the American president on the Israeli leader's 65th birthday.

In an apparent reference to the Sept. 5 summit Carter said he hoped Begin's birthday would signal "the beginning of the successful culmination of our hopes for peace."

Begin responded: "Now we work with your help Mr. President, for the great cause of peace and we hope to bring its blessings to our people and our neighbors."

"Your good wishes are a source of encouragement to me as we embark on this road towards the establishment of peace and security."

The Israeli cabinet is to meet Sunday to start intensive consultations in advance of the Camp David summit.

A technical committee headed by the director of the prime minister's office, Dr. Eliahu Ben-Eliassar, is working out the position Israel will take at the talks.

Israel's outgoing ambassador to the United Nations, Haim Herzog, told Israeli radio Saturday that he believed the present Israeli government was placing too much stress on purely legalistic arguments that were not appropriate to the summit stage of negotiations.

But he also said it should be made clear to Sadat that the "on-again, off-again" approach was no way to conduct international negotiations.

Meanwhile Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan claimed Saturday Israel will display much "openness" in trying to reach an agreement with Egypt at the summit meeting.

Speaking to a forum of his supporters near Tel Aviv, Dayan said the two principles guiding Israel at the meeting to be hosted by Carter would be "a maximum of openness" and the intention to "look for meeting points between us and Egypt."

He said there would be difficulties because the problems were not only between Egypt and Israel, though Egypt will be the only Arab country represented at the summit.

Begin has agreed to make a partial agreement with Egypt, if a full peace treaty is impossible, Dayan said.

Dayan, who will attend the Camp David summit, repeated his call for the abolition of the Israeli military government in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, and enumerated four points for an agreement:

— The right of Israelis to settle anywhere in occupied territory.

— Freedom of movement for Israelis in occupied territory.

— Provisions for Israel's security.

— Selling the question of sovereignty.

At the same meeting, former Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, of the opposition Labor Party, said he felt the best solution would be a separate agreement with Egypt and a declaration of principles on the Palestinian question and the future of the occupied territories.

Rabin said Israel should accept the principle of withdrawal from occupied territories as presented in United Nations resolution 242, not demand sovereignty over areas it withdraws from, and agree that the Palestinians should participate in the determination of their own future.

Rhine Army tightens security after series of bomb attacks

MOENCHENGLADBACH, West Germany, Aug. 19 (Agencies)—Security was tightened around British military bases in West Germany Saturday after a series of explosions in synchronized attacks Friday night.

No one has yet claimed responsibility for the blasts, which hit different bases of the British Rhine Army attached to NATO.

The only casualty was a woman soldier injured by glass splinters.

Army investigators were baffled by the bomb attacks. An army spokesman said the identity of the bombers was a mystery.

But there was speculation the attack could have been the work of the Irish Republican Army (IRA), which opposes a British presence in Northern Ireland, or else German radicals.

Searched, were carried out Saturday at all British bases in West Germany — there are more than 100 of them — and informed sources said similar security checks were made at German and U.S. military installations.

British soldiers and their families were alerted to be on the lookout for more bombs.

One bomb powerful enough to have caused serious casualties failed to detonate on Friday night's attack and was defused by bomb disposal experts.

The bomb, filled with 60 pounds (27 kilos) of explosives, was left beside the wall of an army shop.

A 20-pound (nine kilo) bomb went off outside an officers' mess, which was almost deserted.

But senior army officers said most of the bombs — which exploded within minutes of (Continued on back page)

Experts view dollar moves as 'stopgap'

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Foreign financial experts Saturday welcomed American moves to bolster the dwindling dollar, but stressed they saw the U.S. actions as little more than "a stopgap measure."

They urged further efforts by U.S. President Jimmy Carter to prop up the U.S. currency, which has plummeted in value against major world currencies in the last 15 months, and stabilize money markets.

The U.S. Federal Reserve Board Friday raised its discount rate from 7 1/2 per cent to 7 3/4 per cent and Carter announced a new energy agreement to help control inflation and "protect the integrity of the dollar."

The Reserve Board discount rate at which commercial banks borrow from the U.S. central bank is a key rate and now is at its highest level in four years.

By forcing up U.S. interest rates, the Americans hope to reduce the domestic money supply and help curb inflation, currently pegged at an annual rate of 10.7 per cent, and make U.S. investments more attractive to foreigners, thus improving the U.S. trade deficit.

The moves were seen as the first positive action by the United States to ease world-wide pressure on the dollar after two days of reassuring statements from the White House failed to relieve the faltering U.S. currency.

A senior Japanese Finance Ministry official in Tokyo praised Carter's "quick action," but stressed it was seen as a "stopgap measure" that must be followed by concrete steps to shore up the dollar.

A Bank of Japan spokesman commented that the Reserve Board's action will help the dollar to some extent but also insisted that further action must be taken over the next two or three weeks to halt the dollar's slide.

"We believe the Reserve Board's action is certainly a step to stem the current disorderly monetary market and hope the United States will take further financial and other appropriate measures soon," the official commented.

He added: "We're not so optimistic that this step alone will solve every problem."

The twin announcements came too late Friday to help the dollar on European foreign exchanges, where it continued to sag amid widespread disappointment with Carter's failure Thursday to announce specific measures to revive it.

The U.S. action did however boost the dollar on the New York foreign exchange in late trading Friday. No European government officials or money market experts were available for comment at the weekend.

However, London's authoritative "Financial Times" commented that unless a "follow-through" results in terms of a more credible anti-inflation policy and effective intervention in the foreign exchange markets, the dollar could topple "at the next bit of bad news."

The paper noted that the Reserve Board's action Friday "won't back some of its lost credibility" amid the U.S. government's reluctance in recent months to take any firm steps to brake the dollar's slide.

The "Times" of London cautioned in a frontpage report that the "White House's rejoicing" at the impact of Friday's move might be premature.

"The natural gas compromise bill faces tough opposition on the floors of the Senate and the House of Representatives,"

Royal approval expected soon for religious body's statute

TAIF, Aug. 19—Royal approval is expected to be published shortly on the new statute of the Board of Religious Guidance.

In a statement to "Al-Medina" newspaper Saturday, Sheikh Abdul Aziz ibn Muhammad Al-Sheikh, chairman of the board, said that the most significant features of the new statute included granting more authority to the board offices, so that they can be more effective.

He added that Royal approval came after a study of the draft statute by a ministerial committee headed by Prince Naif, the interior minister, with a view to enabling the board's offices to act decisively.

Al-Sheikh said that the board will soon have new offices for investigation, guidance, enlightenment and inquiry. He said that "we are in the process of preparing and procuring capable men who could assist in carrying the work forward". He added that there were many requests from the rural areas to open new centers and "we are making a comprehensive survey of those villages".

Meanwhile, it has been announced that the Board of Religious Guidance has mobilized its men in markets to eliminate the problems arising out of rush during Ramadan, to check women coming out in immodest dresses and to chase away loiterers.

In a statement published by "Al-Medina" Saturday, Dr. Abdul Aziz Abdul Moneem, deputy chairman of the board, said "we have mobilized enough police and our men to arrest loiterers in Jeddah, Dammam, Mecca, Taif and Medina, and every other city where a congregation of men and women is found".

The board will increase its force in the last 10 days of Ramadan and will deal sternly with all who attempt to misbehave in the country in any manner that contravenes our religion and traditions, Abdul Moneem said.

Paper says four new centers to be set up in rural areas

MECCA, Aug. 19—Four new social development centers will be set up in Saudi Arabia, according to a decision of the social affairs agency of the Ministry of Labor and Social Affairs reported by "Al-Medina" Saturday.

The four will be established at Maj village in Yanbu's Aiss region, Rawdat-Sudair village at Sudair region, Rah-Rah village at Doss, Bilad-Zahrani region and Dolom village at Kharj.

Four ministries will participate in running the centers. They are the Ministries of Labor and Social Affairs, Education, Agriculture and Water, and Health.

The first will be entrusted with direct supervision of the centers and social research to raise standards in areas of rural life.

The second will be concerned with the literacy, including the organization of seminars, film shows and other activities in each village and neighboring areas, to help eliminate illiteracy and raise standards of education.

The third will provide help to farmers, help improve

Riyadh water consumption up 150,000 cu m

JEDDAH, Aug. 19—The increase in Riyadh's water consumption during the present summer has so far averaged 150,000 cubic meters a day, "Al-Jezira" reported Saturday.

It quoted an official source from the capital's water department as saying that the department's board will discuss a report on the subject.

The official added that such an increase was very often caused by many people who will not cut-down their water consumption unless a progressive pricing is imposed.

He said the department will watch very closely the behavior of some consumers who do not heed the importance of water.

breeding by introducing new systems, secure technical assistance for water purification and participate in the fight against pests.

The fourth will be concerned with preventive medicine and the dispensary which will be affiliated to each center.

According to "Al-Medina," Saudi Arabia ranks third after Sweden and Great Britain among countries offering the services to improve rural standards.

Kingdom has enough women primary teachers in cities

JEDDAH, Aug. 19—Primary schools in major Saudi cities have reached self-sufficiency in women teachers, according to an official from the General Directorate for Women's Education.

The official was quoted by "Al-Jezira" newspaper Saturday as saying that no more contracts will be signed at the beginning of this academic year with women teachers for the primary stage in the Kingdom's major cities.

He added that the primary schools had also become self-sufficient in female administrative staff.

He said that contracts with women teachers from abroad will be confined to areas where female teaching institutes do not exist.

The official went on to say that special commissions had been dispatched to a number of Arab countries to sign contracts with women teachers to replace those whose contracts had expired after spending for years in their posts.

"Al-Jezira" also reported that training courses will be organized for graduates of secondary schools.

The three month courses will prepare young women to take teachers at primary level classes.

Petromin signs for Jizan power

RIYADH, Aug. 19 (SPA)—Petromin Saturday signed SR17 million contract with Korean company for setting up Jizan electricity network.

The contract was signed by Dr. Abdul Rahman Al-Zahrani, Petromin's deputy governor and chairman.

It will be carried out over 11 months.

Baha fund loans SR 2 m in month

BAHA, Aug. 19—The Agricultural Bank at Baha granted 132 loans last month worth SR2 million to local farmers, "Okaz" reported Saturday.

It said that the loans were extended to buy Lester, Bedford and Black Aston machines, as well as ploughing machines and tractors.

They were also granted to dredge existing wells and dig new ones for irrigation and husbandry.

Moreover, 50 big pumps, 4 ploughing machines and 26 irrigation devices worth a total SR2.5 million are being distributed, according to Abdulla Saleh Mazhad, the bank's director.

Mustapha Amin ordered to stop writing

CAIRO, Aug. 19 (AP) — A prominent Egyptian writer and newspaper columnist has been suspended after criticizing parliament members who joined President Anwar Sadat's newly created political party. Mustapha Amin, 64-year-old co-founder of the mass circulation daily "Al Akhbar" and a widely read journalist, said in a telephone interview the suspension order became effective on Friday. Amin said he would be allowed to report to work but was given "orders not to write any more." Associates at the newspaper said the order was given by telephone to Amin through the minister of information's office. "Abdul Moneim El Sawi, the information minister, was not available for comment. Under a two-month old law, Egyptian authorities have the right to suspend any journalist whose writings or broadcasts threaten social peace or national unity." In his Aug. 15 article, Amin chided 270 members of parliament for rushing to join Sadat's new National Democratic Party (NDP) before hearing what its platform would be. Amin wrote this indicated the lawmakers were more interested in personalities than party principles. The members of parliament had belonged to the Misyri Party, the ruling centrist party until President Anwar Sadat began his political reformation, and followed Premier Mamedouh Salem to the new party en masse in a show of national unity. Journalists and opposition politicians have been the focus of a clampdown on political dissent that began including former "Al Ahram" editor Mohamamad Hassanein Heikal — have been brought in for questioning. The weekly newspaper "Al Ahali," mouthpiece of Egypt's small but vocal leftist party, has been confiscated six times in as many months after publishing articles criticizing Sadat's political restructuring and his peace initiative. Amin, a graduate of Washington's Georgetown University was jailed under the late President Gamal Abdul Nasser for being an alleged U.S. spy. He was released from jail by Sadat and later allowed to resume writing. In addition to his column — devoted largely to internal problems in Egypt and calls for more personal freedom and less government red tape — Amin is a well known novelist. His political fiction draws heavily on his experiences under Nasser and his eight years in prison. In his Aug. 15 column, Amin wrote: "I had wished that parliament members had not rushed so. I wished they had waited until President Sadat announced the program of his new party. I wished they had discussed the program with (the people) before changing their party colors."

Bahrain reports 21 cholera cases

BAHRAIN, Aug. 19 (R) — A total of 21 cases of cholera have so far been found in Bahrain since the disease was first reported here on Aug. 10, a health ministry spokesman said Saturday.

The outbreak was described as mild by the spokesman who said seven of the people hospitalized with the disease had already been allowed to go home.

Aden denies reports on naval units

ADEN, Aug. 19 (R) — South Yemen has denied charges that its naval units had entered the territorial waters of neighboring North Yemen.

North Yemen has said that four South Yemeni naval units violated its territorial waters on Monday and Tuesday and warned that any further trespassing would create a serious situation.

But a foreign ministry spokesman here was quoted by the state-run radio as dismissing the allegation as "an attempt to aggravate the tense situation in the area and drive the Yemeni people and the whole region to a devastating war." The spokesman called on the North Yemeni government "to understand the real interests of the Yemeni people and homeland in order to spare them the tragedies of destruction, fighting and strife."

The two countries have been at odds since North Yemen blamed South Yemen for the assassination of North Yemeni President Ahmed Hussein Al-Ghashmi in June. The leftist government here has repeatedly denied any involvement.

Two convicts killed in Izmir jail riots

IZMIR, Aug. 19 (R) — Two convicts died in rioting at an Izmir prison early Saturday in the latest violence affecting Turkish jails.

A senior prison official said the two men died after about 300 of the 1,700 inmates of Buca prison began disturbances in support of unspecified demands. The unrest lasted for about four hours, during which six persons were also injured, one seriously. Three workshops were set on fire before security guards restored order just after dawn.

During the past month, several prisons have been hit by riotous violence, with two prison directors killed and another held hostage.

New transfusion method saves 4 Algerian women

PARIS, Aug. 19 (R) — A revolutionary blood transfusion technique has saved the lives of four Algerian women and two children suffering from horrifying radiation burns, a French cancer specialist said.

Seven patients were originally brought to France in June for treatment by Professor Henri Jammet and his 30-strong team at the Curie Institute.

One woman later died in hospital, her lungs completely burned away, Professor Jammet told a press conference, but the six others were now out of danger.

Professor Jammet and two Algerian diplomats at the press conference refused to give more than sketchy details of the radiation source, described as a metallic object the size of a pen.

They also refused to identify the patients, saying only that they came from the region of Constantine in north-eastern Algeria.

Flood worsens in Bangladesh

Dacca, Aug. 19 (Agencies) — The flood situation in Bangladesh's Rajshahi district worsened Saturday with at least four more deaths reported and with large areas under water.

Eight persons have died in the flooding, counting the latest casualties. Officials said more than 29,000 acres of sugar cane land was damaged. Thousands of persons were stranded and large numbers of mud houses had collapsed.

The government called in the army and paramilitary forces for rescue and relief operations.

The relief minister visited the flooded area and confirmed widespread damage to crops. These made homeless were in Rajshahi district where crops were destroyed or partially damaged over 28,000 acres (11,330 hectares). Central government ministries were ordered to direct agencies to take emergency steps to help relieve the plight of the thousands hit by the floods following a meeting of senior government chiefs in Dacca Thursday.

Inside Israel

Fateh carries out attacks

BEIRUT, Aug. 19 (AP) — The military wing of the Palestine Liberation Organization said its fighters conducted three anti-Israeli operations inside Zionist state over the past 48 hours, killing one Israeli and wounding six others.

The Palestinian command said a bomb planted by commandos in Tel Aviv's Carmel market exploded Thursday, killing an Israeli military explosive charge under the car of an Israeli intelligence officer in the city of Dimona, wounding four and destroying the car.

The communiqué also claimed that a Palestinian in Tel Aviv shot an Israeli officer, seriously wounding him.

From new testimony

James Earl Ray's appeal suffers severe setback

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (R)—James Earl Ray's hopes of a successful appeal against his conviction for the murder of civil rights leader Martin Luther King have suffered a severe setback following new testimony from a former Scotland Yard detective.

The House of Representatives Assassinations Committee, which is conducting public hearings into the killings of Dr. King and President John Kennedy, abruptly suspended its questioning of Ray "for him (Ray) to kill a black man of note in the United States would make him a national hero."

Eist's statement was read at Friday's hearing, the third day Friday after a heated exchange with his lawyer, Mark Lane, over the surprise evidence.

Retired Detective Chief Inspector Anthony Eist told committee investigators in London two weeks ago that Ray had made remarks in Britain shortly after Dr. King's killing 10 years ago which left "no doubt in my mind...that he had done the murder."

Eist said Ray told him that

Ray had appeared.

Afterwards, Ray said, "I think that's probably the most damaging statement that's made against me." But he added: "It is false."

Eist said Ray had made the comments to him at London's Heathrow Airport after being detained in Britain in June, 1968, two months after Dr. King's murder.

Committee Chairman Richardson Preyer said Eist's testimony had not yet been accepted as fact and that he may be called to Washington to testify publicly and under oath.

The hearing was cut short after a heated exchange in which Lane attacked Eist's credibility.

Ray, who was giving his version of events surrounding Dr. King's death in public and under oath for the first time, is expected to be called back when the hearings resume in November.

He is serving a 99-year jail term after pleading guilty to Dr. King's murder at his trial. He had asked to appear at the hearings.

In the three days of hearings so far, Ray has been grilled intensively about his claim that he did not kill Dr. King and was framed by a mystery man called "Raoul."

Congressional delegation leaves for Vietnam, Laos

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—An eight-member U.S. congressional delegation left Washington for Vietnam and Laos, hoping to uncover new information about missing Americans in Indochina and gain some insights into those countries' foreign policies.

The group, which left Washington on Friday, is led by Representative G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery, Democrat-Mississippi. It will be the first official U.S. delegation to have a chance to visit Ho Chi Minh City, formerly Saigon, since it fell to the communists in May 1975.

For Montgomery, it will be the third visit to Hanoi since the communist victory, however. He was there as chairman of a select committee on the missing in action in December, 1975, and was a member of the presidential commission that arranged the recovery of 20 bodies of American military men in March, 1977.

The trip this time is at the invitation of Vietnam's Vice Foreign Minister Phan Hien. In Hanoi, the Americans are expected to discuss such issues as the missing persons, trade and the prospects for U.S. technical assistance to the Vietnamese.

Vietnam's continuing troubles with the communist regimes in Cambodia and China also are on the list of topics for discussion, aides to the delegation said.

"We want to learn Vietnam's ideas toward better relations with the United States, and we want to know whether Vietnam intends to pursue an independent course in foreign policy — put another way, for example, whether it will continue to deny the Soviet Union access to the naval base at Cam Ranh Bay," one source said.

Nixon criticizes Carter on foreign, home policies

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19 (AP)—Former U.S. President Richard M. Nixon has criticized the Carter administration's domestic and foreign policies, saying that they haven't dealt effectively with either inflation or "increasing Soviet adventurism."

Nixon made the comments in a taped telephone interview with former Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty. The interview was to be broadcast Sunday on a local television station.

Nixon suggested that the administration of President Jimmy Carter has not dealt effectively with "increasing Soviet adventurism in various parts of the world" and also attacked Carter's handling of the B-1 bomber program.

"I would have gone ahead with it," Nixon said of the bomber. "I feel that the U.S. must strengthen its position. Good intention is not enough. Setting an example and hoping

Chicago court sets $1m bail for Croatian nationalists

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP)—Two Croatian nationalists accused of holding six persons hostage "in a manner abhorrent to all civilization," with pistols and bomb threats, were ordered held on $1 million bonds.

U.S. Magistrate Olga Jurco said the pair — Mile Kodzoman and Bozo Kelava — "displayed callous disregard for the rights of human beings" and deliberately used "human beings as bargaining tools in a manner abhorrent to all civilization."

The Croatians were charged Friday with threatening to blow up the West German consulate Thursday while trying to gain the release of a fellow nationalist, Stepan Bilandzic, a prisoner in West Germany.

The Yugoslavian government has demanded Bilandzic's extradition on charges of assassinating a Yugoslav diplomat. Last week, a court in Cologne, West Germany, ruled that Bilandzic can be extradited. His supporters say they believe this would mean his death.

Bilandzic talked on the phone with the two terrorists during the siege and told them that they were hurting his cause — independence of Croatia from Yugoslavia. The two surrendered after talking with Bilandzic and freed the unharmed hostages nearly 12 hours after the siege began on the 10th floor of the downtown building that houses the consulate.

Kodzoman, 33, is a naturalized citizen. Assistant U.S. Attorney Jeremy Margolis labeled him a transient because he has rarely lived in any one location for more than six months and frequently travels abroad.

Margolis said Kelava is a resident alien of the United States who is "as poor a risk to appear in court as you'll ever see." Kelava, 36, a tile cutter from San Mateo, California, is married and has two children, ages 11 and 13.

Margolis said the FBI has information that both Kelava and Kodzoman are members of an international Croatian organization that he said has been involved in numerous terrorist activities.

Margolis said both men have told authorities in Chicago that they would die for their cause, so they "wouldn't be at all adverse to ignoring the orders of this or any other court."

Michael Monaco, attorney for the two Croatians, told the magistrate that a much smaller bond should be set because no one was injured during the siege. He noted that the supposed bombs had no explosive and could not have detonated. He claimed the pistols used during the siege were unloaded, but Margolis said rounds of ammunition were seized when the two men were arrested.

The Croatians were formally charged with willfully and unlawfully assaulting and imprisoning foreign officials and official guests of the United States.

Margolis said convictions could result in prison terms up to 60 years each. He expects charges of assaulting federal officers to be filed later because the pair allegedly brandished firearms at agents during the siege.

In Bonn, West Germany, Chancellor Helmut Schmidt thanked President Carter for the bloodless end to the kidnapping. "The federal chancellor has asked the president to pass on his thanks to all the involved," said government spokesman Armin Gruenewald in a statement.

Former CIA employee held on high bond

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP)—A $1 million bond has been set for a 23-year-old former CIA employee charged with delivering a national defense document to the Soviet Union.

William P. Kampiles, a sales representative for a drug company in the western suburb of Oak Brook, was charged with giving the Soviets a document relating to national defense. It was entitled, "KF-11, System Technical Manual" and was classified top secret, U.S. Attorney Thomas P. Sullivan said in court.

Sullivan said that loss of the manual could cause "grave danger to national security."

Bond was set Friday by U.S. Magistrate Olga Jurco, who also ordered Kampiles to surrender his passport.

An FBI complaint alleged that Kampiles gave the document to a Soviet by the name of "Michael" on or about March 2, 1978, in Athens, Greece, and was paid $3,000.

Kampiles, a former Vienna, Virginia, resident, was employed as a watch officer for the Central Intelligence Agency from March to November 1977. He allegedly took the document from CIA headquarters while working there and kept it after he left the agency, moved to the Chicago area, authorities said.

The spokesman added that Kampiles' arrest Thursday night was coordinated with the CIA.

L.A. attorney named advisor to Carter

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—A Los Angeles attorney active in Jewish affairs, U.S. President Jimmy Carter's newest senior adviser.

Edward Sanders, 56, who was a volunteer deputy national campaign director in Carter's 1976 presidential campaign, was named on Friday to the $20,000-a-year position with primary responsibility for U.S. policy in the Middle East. Because of his connections with the Jewish community, it was indicated Sanders would be a liaison between the administration and Jewish leaders.

Ethiopian diplomat, family seeking political asylum

TOKYO, Aug. 19 (AP)—An Ethiopian diplomat missing for the past month has been staying under the shelter of the United Nations High Commission for refugees while seeking political asylum in a third country, the Foreign Ministry said Saturday.

Berhanu Tebeje, second secretary of the Ethiopian embassy here, is believed to be seeking asylum in the United States with his wife and their four children, ministry officials said. Tebeje is the second Ethiopian diplomat stationed in Tokyo to seek political asylum. Former Ambassador to Japan Ato Million Neqniq, accompanied by his wife and four children, was granted asylum in the United States early last year three months after his flight from office.

It was not known whether there was any connection between the ambassador's departure and a coup d'etat in Ethiopia in which six members of the ruling junta were executed.

Tebeje arrived here to assume his post in 1976, and served under Neqniq, who was reportedly reluctant to return home to serve the military government of Lieutenant Colonel Mengistu Haile Mariam after a bloody power struggle in the Provisional Military Administrative Council.

Ethiopian embassy officials could not be reached for comment Saturday.

"N.Y. Times" reporter gives court manuscript

HACKENSACK, New Jersey, Aug. 19 (R)—A judge Saturday accepted the manuscript of a book by jailed "New York Times" reporter Myron Farber but refused to release him until he handed over the notes on which the book is based.

Bergen County Superior

Court Judge William Arnold called the manuscript "only a slice of bread" and left Farber in the New Jersey jail where he has spent the past two weeks for contempt of court.

The notes and the book concern Farber's investigation into a series of mysterious deaths at a New Jersey hospital in the 1960s.

His findings, published in the "New York Times," led to triple murder charges against Argentine-born Doctor Mario Jascalevich, whose lawyers say they need the notes to prove their client's innocence.

The "Times," which is being fined $5,000 a day for backing Farber in his defiance of the court, Saturday handed over all the documentation it has on the Jascalevich case.

A court ruling on ending the fine, now amounting to $75,000, is expected on Monday.

Farber bases his refusal to give up his notes on the issues of press freedom and confidentiality of sources, adding that they would not in any case prove the doctor's guilt or innocence.

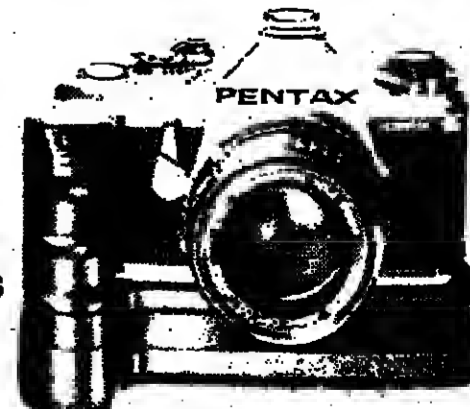

Judge Arnold is to examine the book manuscript to determine if it can help the defense. Attorney Raymond Brown, representing Dr. Jascalevich, was rebuffed Saturday when he demanded to be given the book directly.

Egypt now eligible to draw from IMF's $720m 3-year loan

CAIRO, Aug. 19 (AP) — Egypt is now eligible to start drawing funds from a three-year $720 million loan from the International Monetary Fund, a government spokesman said today.

The loan arrangements for the three-year period were completed Friday, following four years of negotiations between the Egyptians and the IMF.

In the past, Egypt has been only a one-year borrower from the IMF.

The deal announced Friday outlined May 30 when representatives of the IMF and Egyptian government's economic committee initiated a loan for the $720 million.

The IMF loan is subject to review at six-month intervals. Egypt can withdraw funds annually or semi-annually. An economy ministry spokesman said Saturday the first installment of the loan is expected to be about $125 million or $150 million.

Egypt is only the fifth nation to receive a three-year loan from the IMF. Observers attribute Egypt's success in winning a three-year loan to domestic economic recovery, and to Egypt's increased international stature as a result of the peace initiative President Anwar Sadat launched last November with his trip to Jerusalem.

Koraim said the three-year deal means Egypt can look further ahead in trying to balance its budget, in seeking foreign aid and in implementing its

Turkey devalues lira against 14 currencies

ANKARA, Aug. 19 (AP) — Turkey devalued its lira Saturday against 14 world currencies by percentages ranging from 1.9 to 18.5.

The lira's heaviest loss was against the Swiss franc, by 18.5 per cent, with the new rate established at 14.89 lira for one Swiss franc from the previous 12.56.

The lira's rate to the U.S. dollar remained the same at 25TL and was revalued against the Canadian dollar from 22.22 to 21.77.

The central bank move came several days after officially confirmed reports that Turkey was considering a move to devalue its currency to the Special Drawing Rights (SDR), the special monetary unit used by the International Monetary Fund, and to let it float in a limited fashion.

Discrepancies in the cross-rates because of the dollar's continuous loss of value made the readjustments necessary.

The new official rates were listed as follows:

- Australian dollar, from previous 25.35 TL to 28.02 TL.
- Austrian schilling, from 1.63 to 1.69.
- West German mark, from 11.73 to 12.30.
- Belgian franc, from 0.76 to 0.77.
- Danish kron, from 4.32 to 4.43.
- French franc, from 5.30 to 5.61.
- Dutch florin, from 11.02 to 11.34.
- Swedish kroon, from 5.28 to 5.51.
- Swiss franc, from 12.56 to 14.89.
- 100 Italian lire, from 2.80 to 2.92.
- Canadian dollar, from 22.22 to 21.77.
- Kuwait dinar, from 82.39 to 84.63.
- Norwegian kron, from 4.54 to 4.65.
- Pound sterling, from 45.75 to 47.37.
- Saudi Arabian rial, from 6.70 to 7.29.

Morocco to develop oil shale

RABAT, Aug. 19 (AP) — Morocco has decided to cooperate with the U.S. company Occidental Petroleum in developing oil shale tracts and drilling for oil and phosphorous official sources disclosed Saturday.

The sources said the government wanted to develop its own oil resources because it imports 80 per cent of its energy supplies.

The decision followed a recent meeting between Occidental's president, Armand Hammer, and King Hassan II of Morocco.

No further details were available.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP) — Nine hundred. It's a simple enough number, but for the Dow Jones industrial average, an elusive one.

The widely recognized stock market average tried and failed several times to punch through the 900-point barrier several times before finally hauling itself over 900 this past week for the first time in more than a year.

But it proved unable to hold the ground it had gained, slipping back below 900 at week's end.

It closed the week at 896.83, a gain of 5.98 from the previous week.

The New York Stock Exchange's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .53 to 59.06 on the week. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 3.22 to 164.52.

Big Board volume totaled 178.12 million shares.

"You came up over 900 and

you just hung on by your fingertips," said analyst Monte Gordon at Dreyfus Corp. "It wasn't a very impressive performance."

"It didn't have much trouble getting above 900, but it's certainly having trouble staying above it," said Newton D. Zinder, an analyst at E.F. Hutton and Co.

"It's nice that it went over it and it's a psychological factor," Zinder added. "But I think we're going to see the market pass back and forth through 900 in the next few weeks."

The last time the Dow closed above 900 was July 26, 1977, after two months at that level. It tumbled the next day, not climbing above 900 again until Aug. 9 this year, when it passed it during the day only to fall back again before the close. It took another week before it could perform the feat and stay there long enough for the market to close.

Many analysts, however, tend to discount the psychological significance attached to the level.

"It's a nice round number, but it doesn't mean anything," said Larry Wachtel at Bache Halsey Stuart Shields. "It's a media thing."

"I think it has some psychological impact," said Eugene Peroni at Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis. "It's not great — it's minor."

"As a technician, it has little importance to me," he added. "Any importance it might have would be coincidental to other factors."

Peroni said he didn't think the market would have any trouble getting over the 900 level because the market had been so strong lately, rising almost 100 points in a bit more than a month, and for that reason, any psychological level was not very significant.

"They only become important if the conditions extant at that time make it so," said Peroni. "We think the conditions now, particularly internal, are dynamic."

But Gordon said, "It is empirically clear that round numbers in the Dow create a problem ... whenever the Dow gets up to and around those numbers, it seems to have trouble surmounting them."

If the predictions of analysts like Peroni are correct, and the market continues the strong rise it has exhibited in recent weeks — and can make it past 900 to stay — the next important barrier may be the biggest one of all for the Dow Jones average, the one it last hit in late 1976: 1,000.

OECD urges Greece to reduce inflation

PARIS, Aug. 19. (AP) — The Greek government should give greater priority to reducing inflation and keeping the size of the country's external deficit within acceptable limits, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) said Saturday.

In its annual survey of the Greek economy, OECD insisted that "the most important immediate task" is to bring the inflation rate down appreciably, and that emphasis should be placed on stabilization policies.

Consumer prices are forecast to rise 13.5 per cent this year, up from the 10 per cent officially predicted and from 12 per cent in 1977, due to domestic factors, notably substantial increases in nominal wages and other incomes.

"This year nominal wages are expected to rise by about 20 per cent and real wages by 6 per cent, rates which are clearly excessive by any standards and unsustainable over the medium-term," the survey said.

It pointed out that in contrast to many other member countries, Greece has pursued fairly expansionary demand management, but conceded that the policies have been "broadly successful" with a relatively fast growth of non-agricultural output and employment and a decline in unemployment last year.

OECD called on the Greek authorities to restrain public expenditure. It said continued substantial budget deficits for the third year running when unemployment is at historically low levels but seem to be inconsistent with the aim of reducing inflation and the

Woody Pridgen and the Red Sea

By Mary Jo McConahay

FIVE-MILE REEF, West of Jeddah—At this sunless depth, already some of the coral and fish have lost their colors, and the world has become a silent, undulating blue. Woody Pridgen, Red Sea diver and photographer, is watching one of his 35 millimeter cameras shoot a school of parrotfish with a special underwater camera. Suddenly, three four-foot sharks swim into view behind the student's head.

Woody makes every gesture sure, and sends every mental message to the young man to turn around—all to no avail. But the sharks seem content to feed off the straggling parrotfish, the men are getting low on air, and both rise to the surface without incident.

"Why didn't you turn around?" shouts Woody as they float themselves over the side of the boat. "There were sharks right behind you!"

"Three sharks?!" "Yeah, close as that," he puts in frustration. "You missed some beautiful shots." Woody Pridgen is not calm. It is simply that at the age of 41, after a lifetime of diving, he himself has never known a moment of terror underwater. And it still surprises him that others do.

In his years in Saudi Arabia, Woody has taken one of the most extensive collections of Red Sea life pictures of any photographer. He hopes someday they will come out in book form.

So far his only published work has been an advertisement for camera equipment and the 1973 Saudi calendar. Nevertheless, the deck of his house on the Creek is a gathering place for the pro and the eager neophyte alike, because the name of Woody Pridgen has spread among those who want to learn about the reefs, who want to know about taking pictures of some of the richest underwater life in the world.

In a series of handwritten journals, kept as faithfully as a captain's log, Woody has created a treasury of information about what fish, corals, shipwrecks and unusual phenomena were sighted where, at what depth, in what weather and circumstances. It's good to keep the journal, he says, because over the years questions are answered, creatures appear again and are identified. And others reappear but still have no name. When Jacques Cousteau, Douglas Faulkner or Sir Peter Scott want to "do" this coast of the Red Sea, they come first to Woody, dive with him or look at his photographs, and sit out on this deck. He may seem young to be playing the wise old salt, but Woody's North Carolina coast roots early put the sea in his blood and a drawl in his speech, and he seems a natural for the role.

Yet it is ultimately his confidence about himself beneath the surface that is earning him his reputation. That is not to say this tall, boyishly handsome man doesn't recognize hazard. He considers great depth should be treated as "dangerous." But he has the qualities of one steeped in experience with his skill: the absence of panic in tight situations, a sense of when to retreat and when to strike. Once, lobstering in Florida, Woody waited until a twelve-foot hammerhead made five passes at him—just to make sure the creature had serious intentions—before killing it.

"I have no fear, only respect for the sea," he says, lighting the pipe that is ever-present on dry land.

Woody would never have killed that Florida shark had it not been him or it: "I gave up spear-fishing because once you start taking pictures of these fish, you don't want to kill them anymore."

And it's not as if he has never suffered from his avocation. Only when you first shake hands with him—never later—are you aware of the missing fingers on his right hand. Even as a boy Woody dived, and in those days the infamous shipwreck coast near his home at Kill Devil Hill was newly littered with debris from World War II. One grenade was still live.

Twelve years ago the mechanic took a job with then-fledgling Saudia Airlines so he could be near the reefs he was itching to photograph. It was a pioneering time, and Woody's job included flying off to desert landing strips to set up what have become busy airports on Saudia's schedule. Today he is married (to a former Saudia stewardess) and as chief of the airline's Jeddah maintenance operation is responsible for keeping the expanding fleet in the air. But every spare moment finds the Pridgens and assorted friends and followers at their house on the Creek, getting ready to go out or just returning from a trip to one of the reefs.

Today the talk on the deck has come back to a perennially favorite dispute: Where is the best place to dive?

The champion of the Yucatan coast is defeated at the outset, the Great Barrier Reef man lacks experience here, but the defender of Tahiti appears to give Woody of the Red Sea a run for his money.

When he's ready, Woody sucks on his pipe and says, "Yes, I've dived them all—been to Tahiti four times—and the Polynesians do have beautiful water and a wonderful setting. But they live from the sea by spear-fishing, so you're lucky to see anything over twelve inches long. Besides," he says, warning to his subject, "their surf is terrific so there's no coral life."

The Red Sea, on the other hand, is a calm, enclosed body of water where corals can grow.

"Seventy-five per cent of Red Sea corals are in sight of snorkelers, and for divers who go really deep, there are even more exotic Red Sea fans and black corals. There's more life per square inch in the Red Sea than in any other body of water."

What Woody doesn't talk about here, but speaks of at great length later after a night dive at the entrance to the Creek, is how the beauty of these seas is being destroyed.

"Up to two years ago there was no pollution. But the Suez reopened without regulations for pumping bilges, and there are so many ships now..." he says. "It's killing off the shallow reef coral life."

Some of the blame for the destruction lies much closer to home, however, as close as the nearest pleasure boat party or sloppy beachfront resident. The famous Jeddah Creek, for centuries a treasured landmark channel of the Hejazi coast, is a sad example.

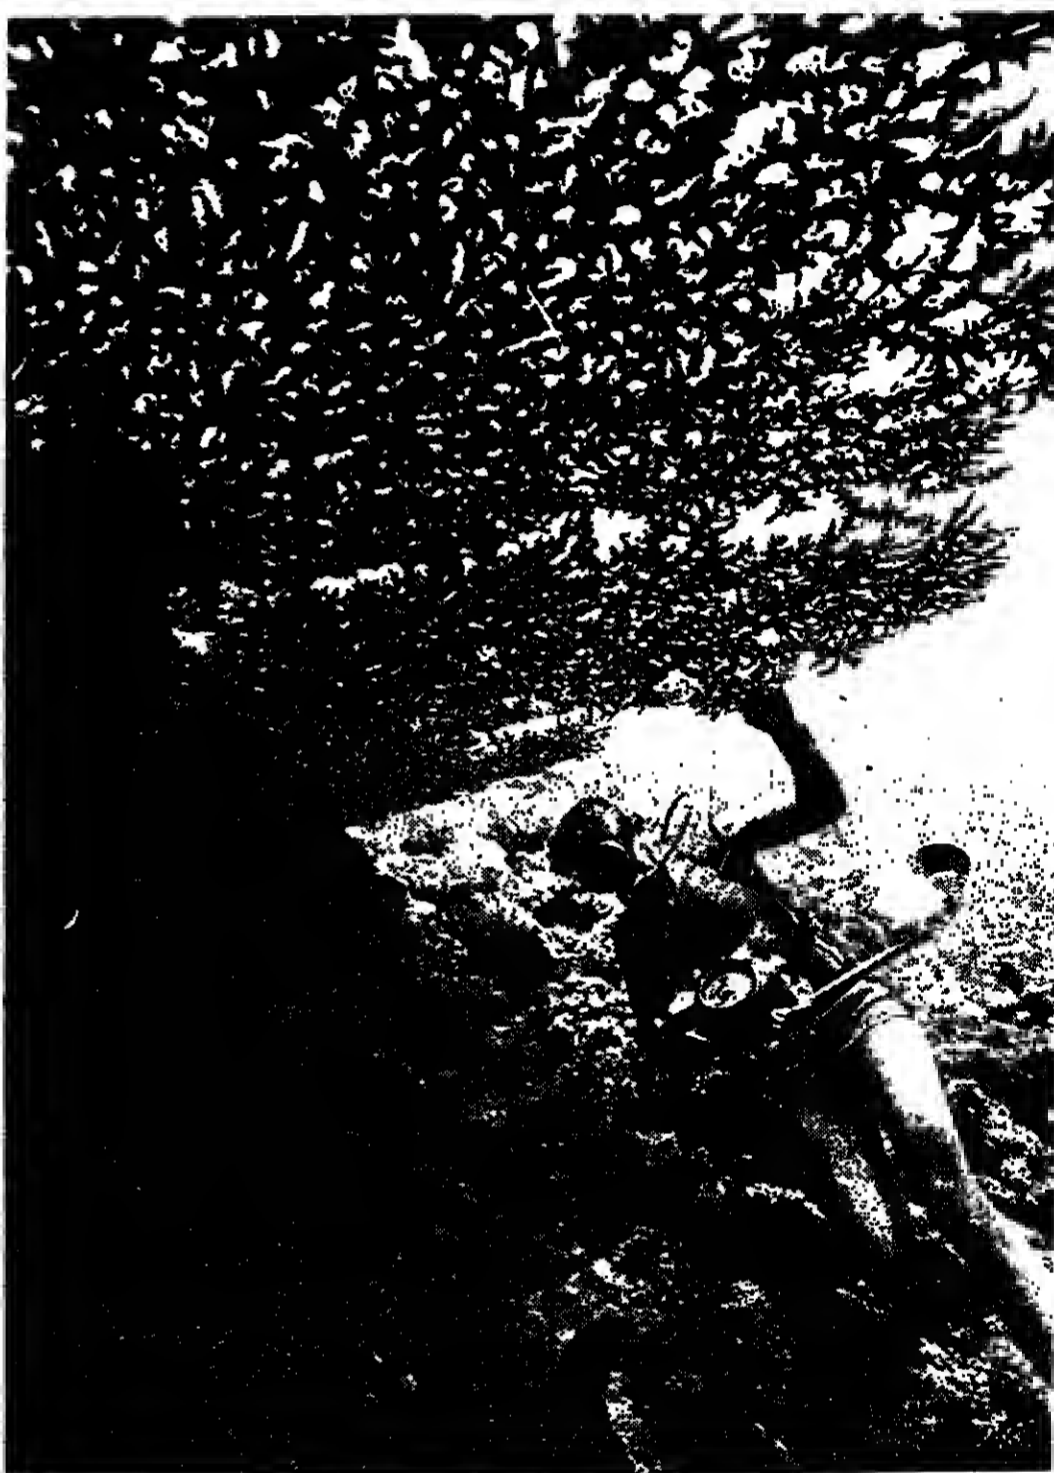

"Twelve years ago this Creek was alive," recalls Woody. "Now tin cans and bottles have collected on the bottom, and compared to then, today it's barren."

Woody the photographer is self-taught. He bought his first housing for an instamatic for fifty-four dollars; today he owns three Nikons and five Rolleis and his equipment bag is worth $20,000. His suggestions to aspiring underwater photographers, however, do not include buying a lot of fancy gadgets.

"Most of the people who want to do this never get really good at it. Maybe they don't want to spend the time it takes. Or a lot of them never learn their equipment through before they're off buying into another system. My advice to a new photographer is to get himself a Nikonos with a 35 mm. lens and run with it."

Woody believes in moving right up to his subject, and his photos show how he balances an aggressive technique with transcendent patience.

"You have to get on top of your subject, whether it's an old wreck, a piece of coral or a lion fish, because no matter how clear the water looks plankton and other impurities are there between you," he says.

"And one thing you learn: no fish will pose for you. I've waited seven years to take the right pictures of one fish."

Some day Woody Pridgen's dream will come true, his photographs will be published in a big, glossy book, and will likely become an instant collector's item. Meanwhile, they are only seen by friends and the occasional audiences of enthusiasts when he gives slide shows in Jeddah.

Today he continues to dive and photograph, logging information and expanding the picture collection.

His wife Angie, however, no longer accompanies him underwater. Two years ago, far out to sea, they were with another diver looking at an old wreck at 75 feet when Angie ran out of air. She panicked—a fright that would keep her from ever diving again—and kicked so hard she threw off the swim fins which might have propelled her to the surface. Woody remained calm, gave her air from his own supply, and got them both up safely.

"It's the same reason why he gets good pictures," says Angie, recalling the incident. "Woody can handle anything under water."

Bidding Quiz

You are the dealer and open One Diamond. Partner responds One Heart. What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠ Q7 ♣ 83 ♦ AK74 ♣ A38
2. ♠ 10 ♣ K5 ♦ AK873 ♣ AK74
3. ♠ 6 ♦ AJ74 ♣ AK732 ♦ K3
4. ♠ K3 ♦ 82 ♣ AKQ85 ♦ A56

1. One notrump. The only bids worth considering are one notrump and two clubs. Because an opening bid of one in a suit may range from 12 to 21 high-card points and may have all kinds of distribution, it is best to pinpoint the size and shape of the hand as soon as possible.

2. Two notrump. The only bid worth considering is one notrump and two clubs. Because an opening bid of one in a suit may range from 12 to 21 high-card points and may have all kinds of distribution, it is best to pinpoint the size and shape of the hand as soon as possible.

3. Four hearts. You shouldn't settle for less than game, since it's hard to imagine partner losing as many as four tricks. The best way of getting to game is by bidding it directly. The leap to four hearts is by no means a closing bid; on the contrary, it implies great interest in a slam. It would be wrong to bid only three hearts, which partner might pass.

4. Two notrump. It is true that a rebid of two notrump in this sequence signifies 18 or 19 high-card points, but you can surely afford to relax the usual requirements, considering the likelihood of scoring six diamond tricks.

Point-count should always be regarded as a very flexible tool. This hand is superior in playing strength to most balanced hands containing 18 or 19 points, with which you would jump to two notrump.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR SATURDAY, AUGUST 13, 1978

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) ♈
Avoid skepticism, doubt, pessimism. On the other hand, don't fall for any suggestions which common sense tells you have dubious value.

Taurus (Apr. 21 to May 21) ♉
Astute judgment needed; also self-restraint under pressure. Be tactful in speech, cautious in finalizing agreements. Some tricky spots indicated.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) ♊
Stars fairly favorable, but be careful not to overstep sensible bounds. There's temptation now to exaggerate, underestimate, go to extremes generally.

CANCER (June 22 to July 22) ♋
Prediction and perception needed now. Curb a tendency to wander from a prescribed course. Aim to see both sides of controversial issues.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 23) ♌
Difficult situations? Analyze, then attack - with self-confidence and optimism. You can utilize your connections profitably in the p.m.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) ♍
Some friction evident. Be your practical self and problems will not magnify. They can always be amplified if you put your mind to it.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) ♎
A day for listening! Give careful thought to all that is said in conversations, discussions. You could learn much to your advantage.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) ♏
Some restraint needed. Just because another's idea sounds "intriguing" does not mean it is best for YOU. Think!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) ♐
Some unexpected moves will call for shrewdness in all areas. Don't be overly suspicious where it's not warranted, however.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 21) ♑
You will be judged more by actions than by words. But be sure that BOTH register to your benefit. Discuss "sticky" problems with knowing heads.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 22 to Feb. 19) ♒
Curb tendencies toward extravagance, pacing yourself too hectically. Tendencies toward extremism abound.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) ♓
Don't insist on your own way if others disagree, except where right must prevail. Enjoy friends whose interests revive your spirits.

Semifinals set in tennis

TORONTO, Aug. 19 (AP)—Top-seeded Eddie Dibbs easily defeated John McEnroe 6-1, 6-2 Friday to gain a berth in the semifinals at the Canadian Open tennis championships.

Brian Gottfried, the No. 2 seed, was extended to three sets before eliminating Ivan Molina of Colombia 5-7, 6-3, 6-2.

In other matches, Chris Lewis, a 21-year-old New Zealand, upset fourth-seeded taul Ramirez of Mexico 7-6, 7-5 in a three-hour match and Argentina's Jose Luis Clerc, 0, got past Balazs Taroczy of Hungary 6-2, 6-2.

Lewis served four aces in his game and returned one hot from between his legs with his back to the net and eventually won the point to beat Ramirez.

Lewis, ranked 132nd in the world in 1977 but who was moved up 100 spots in the rankings this year, trailed 5-3 in his final set before fighting back to break Ramirez in the final game and advance to the semifinals of the $210,000 tournament.

Lewis, 21, was ahead 5-1 in the first set and was serving or set point before Ramirez allied and tied the score 5-5. He won the tie-breaker 9-7.

In the second set, Ramirez was ahead 3-0 before Lewis fought back and forced another tie-breaker, which Ramirez won 7-4.

In the deciding game, Ramirez was down 30-40 when his attempted cross-court lob went bounding into the net.

Stowe Grand Prix
In Stowe, Vermont, Jimmy Connors used devastating service and passing games Friday to beat Tom Gullikson in the Stowe Grand Prix tennis tournament.

Gullikson had seven service winners against the tournament's top seed, but Connors countered with six of his own to breeze

Kenya bans five of its top athletes

NAIROBI, Kenya, Aug. 19 (AP)—Five of Kenya's top track stars, including 800-meter specialist Mike Boit and 1,500-meter man Wilson Waigwa, have been banned from participating in any further foreign competition and ordered to return home immediately, Kenya's highest ranking sports official said Saturday.

Sam Ongeri, chairman of the Amateur Athletic Association, said the five athletes were in danger of being "banned for life" by the Association for taking part in an invitation event in Zurich earlier this week without official permission.

The five competed in this month's Commonwealth Games in Edmonton, Canada, and are expected to take part in the big international meeting in London next week.

They include Boit, gold medalist in the Commonwealth 800-meter race; Michael Musyoki, who won a silver medal behind Jordan Foster in the 10,000 meters; Paulwell Kimaiyo, Commonwealth record-holder in the 800 meters hurdles; Waigwa, one of the world's fastest runners over 1,500 meters; and Abel Cheranyot, a promising long middle-distance runner.

As a result of the ban, only Rono, double gold medalist at the Commonwealth games and holder of four world records, and Sam Kipkurgat II represent Kenya in London.

Rono took part in the Zurich meeting but sought and received prior permission to compete.

Ongeri commented: "I am going to be firm. It is better to have a well-behaved team with no medals than to have 10 indisposed gold medalists."

All five reprimanded athletes are currently studying in the United States on track scholarships.

A ban on competition would mean the automatic loss of their athletic scholarships.

European box champ lashes out of a title

VILLACH, Austria, Aug. 19 (R)—Austria's Josef Pachler became the new European welterweight boxing champion Friday night after title holder Joergen Hansen of Denmark was disqualified for knocking him out after the bell to mark the end of the eighth round.

The rank outsider's surprise victory came at the abrupt end of a fight he looked certain to lose.

As Pachler, 28, started back to his corner at the end of a hard-fought eighth round, Hansen, 35, lashed out and hit him on the back of the head, sending the challenger into a heap on the mat.

Amid whistles and jeers from the 3,500 spectators, Italian referee Angelo Poletti conferred with judges while Pachler was laid out on a stretcher. Then Poletti declared Hansen disqualified.

A groggy Pachler, his left eye closed by one of Hansen's earlier punches, rose to greet the enthusiastic cheers of his supporters.

It was the third time the Dane has been disqualified. After gaining the title in June last year, he lost it through disqualification in a match against West German Joerg Eipier in August and regained it from France's Alain Marion in April.

In Friday's fight he clearly outclassed Pachler with technical superiority and a wider range of tactics. After a slow start when both boxers negotiated each other up, Hansen started to pummel Pachler with precise lefts and rights in the fifth round.

The Austrian managed to keep going, but apart from a blind burst of fury in the eighth round, he never looked a threat to Hansen and never offered anything to match the Dane's carefully aimed head blows.

A professional since 1973, Pachler, from Ettendorf in southern Austria, has won 33 of his 36 fights and had one draw. His two defeats were to Nigeria's Gray Bekwe and Zaire's Wa Kid Bukasa.

vanced with a 7-5, 7-6 win over Peter Fleming, ranked fifth.

Gray International
Sixth-seeded Mike Cahill had a busy day Friday in the Gray International tennis championship in Cleveland, Ohio, winning three matches.

Cahill, 26, completed his suspended singles match against Marcelo Lara. He had lost the first set 5-7, but won the second 7-6 before darkness ended Thursday's play. Friday, he won the third set 6-0.

After that, Cahill beat Erik Van Dillen 6-2, 7-5 in a quarter-final match. And, 15 minutes later, he and Lara played doubles and beat the Australian pair of Warren Maher and Noel Phillips 6-3, 7-6.

Meanwhile, Dick Stockton, seeded second, beat Pascal Portes of France 6-1, 7-6.

World championships

Gile and dope in cycling

MUNICH, West Germany, Aug. 19 (AP)—Anton Tkach of Czechoslovakia recaptured the cycling sprint crown and an East German superstar lost his silver medal in a doping scandal at the world championships Friday.

Tkach, a 27-year-old Olympic gold medalist, edged East Germany's Emmanuel Raasch in two dramatic sprints on the wooden surface of the Munich Velodrome to recapture the title he held in 1974.

West Germany's Rainer Podlesch won the gold medal in the amateur motor-paced event ahead of two Dutch rivals, Mathieu Pronk and Martin Rietveld.

But the two championships on the third day of the track events were overshadowed by the banishment of East Germany's Norbert Duerpisch, who had won the silver medal in Thursday's individual pursuit race.

The International Cycling Federation announced that Duerpisch, the defending champion, had turned up positive in a doping test taken after Wednesday's quarter-finals in which he barely defeated Swiss Robert Dill-Bundi.

The officials stripped the 26-year-old East German army lieutenant of his medal, ordered him to leave the competition and suspended him for one month.

Duerpisch disputed the outcome, saying he had not taken an illegal substance and could not understand how ephedrine — an antiasthmatic — had turned up in his post race urine sample.

The East Germans said they were protesting in writing.

East Germany appeared headed for a second straight sweep of all four Olympic disciplines at the championships until the doping scandal broke.

Tkach prevented this from happening with his two dramatic victories over Raasch.

The stocky Czech outfoxed his East German rival in the second run by forcing a standstill balancing act that left both riders motionless for over two minutes after the first lap. Raasch was forced to pedal away and take the lead and Tkach raced up from behind on the final curve to just get his wheel over the finish line ahead.

The crowd of nearly 5,000 was rooting for the Czech all the way.

SEASON'S START: Ipswich skipper Martin O'Neill scores against Forest.

Soccer hooligan gets 3 years

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—A soccer hooligan who kicked a cop in the face and broke his nose, was jailed for three years Friday on the eve of the new football season.

Judge Henry Garrard told 19-year-old Edward Beech at Stafford Crown Court: "In the last few years you, and people like you, have besmirched what used to be a great English sport. You have got to know that football hooligans who cause personal injury or damage to property must expect to lose their liberty."

Beech booted police constable Brian Bailey last December during a cup game between Walsal and Port Vale. He was convicted of causing grievous bodily harm. The officer was trying to calm a crowd of Walsal supporters, including Beech, who were shouting abuse at visiting fans.

Violence among soccer fans is keeping thousands of fans away from the grounds, the clubs say, but the start of a new season always draws good gates. Ninety-two clubs in four divisions battle for English League supremacy on 46 grounds Saturday at the start of the eight-month season, the longest and hardest in world soccer. The 38 teams in three divisions of the Scottish League got going last Saturday, one week earlier.

Premier interest of the opening round in the English League centers on Nottingham. The home team faces London's Tottenham Hotspur which bought two players from Argentina's World Cup winning squad, Osvaldo Ardiles and Ricardo Villa.

Track records open swim fete

BERLIN, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Third Swimming World Championships, Berlin's biggest sports event since the 1936 Olympics, got off to a fast start Friday as two new world track records were set.

Poland's Krystyna Kacperczyk shattered the 400-meter women's hurdles mark in the first event of a track meet held during opening festivities of the 49-nation swimming championships in West Berlin.

The 29-year-old Warsaw runner, who set her first world record of 56.51 in the event in 1974, posted a record time of 55.44, breaking East German Karin Rossley's 1977 mark of 55.63.

East Germany's Ulrike Bruus, 24, reduced her own 1978 world record in the 1,000-meter women's event from 2:32.7 to 2:32.0.

In the start of the actual swimming events, American diver Jennifer Chandler took an early lead Saturday in opening preliminaries.

dent led a 21-diver field with 191.52 points after five required dives from the three-meter springboard.

Soviet Irena Kalinina, also 19, trailed her with 186.99 points as the field prepared for Sunday's finals.

At another track meet at Potsdam, just outside Berlin an East German women's team established a world record for the 4 by 100 meters relay race Saturday when they were clocked at 42.27 seconds, the official East Berlin news agency ADN reported.

'Les nouveaux Lindbergh!'

PARIS, Aug. 19 (Agence)—America's transatlantic balloonists, dubbed "the new Lindberghs" by the French press, said Friday their next air adventure might take a page from the Jules Verne story: "Around the World in 80 days."

"I have a new one," Ben Abruzzo announced with Maxie Anderson and Larry Newman of the "Double Eagle II." That's to build a bigger balloon — and it can be done — and we'd go to a higher altitude and we'd go around the world in 30 days, fly all the way around the world, entirely circumnavigate the globe."

The three adventurers, all from Albuquerque, New Mexico, ended the world's first transatlantic balloon crossing in apheid in northern France Thursday night.

After a night of Paris-style celebrations, the three told a press conference they will fly to London for a triumphal dinner with a British balloon team that failed in an attempted transatlantic crossing last month.

In the finest sporting tradition, the Americans said they will not only buy the dinner but discuss with their British counterparts why the Double Eagle II succeeded where 17 earlier transatlantic attempts had failed.

The three, rested and ecstatic threw heroes' welcome in France, spent the day with their wives sightseeing in Paris. The three men then relaxed at a solo transatlantic flight in 1927 by the Seine while their wives took a look at some Paris fashions.

Newman said they next plan to helicopter to Evreux, near like most French newspapers where they landed, to retrieve personal belongings and arrange the return to America of the red and yellow gondola of the Double Eagle II.

The three are currently without passports, Newman said. The documents may have been tossed overboard when they jettisoned equipment, or they may have been stolen in the riotous arrival scene, he said. The U.S. Embassy was arranging new ones.

For their part, the French couldn't have been more excited by the American conquest. The towns of Charles, Lindbergh's three men then relaxed at a solo transatlantic flight in 1927 by the Seine while their wives took a look at some Paris fashions.

"Les nouveaux Lindbergh!" Newman said they next plan to helicopter to Evreux, near like most French newspapers

Whitworth, Post tied in golf meet

DEARBORN, Michigan, Aug. 19 (AP)—Kathy Whitworth birdied the final hole while Sandra Post bogeyed her final hole Friday, leaving them as co-leaders for the second consecutive day in the $150,000 LPGA tour event at the Dearborn Country Club.

Whitworth sank a nine-foot putt on the par-four ninth hole — her last hole of the day — for the birdie that gave her a one-under-par 71 and a 36-hole total of three-under 140.

Post, who finished three groups behind Whitworth, was five-under for the tourney at the ninth tee. She hit the green in regulation, but three-putted from 25 feet for a bogey to match Whitworth's 71.

Both golfers shot 69 Thursday for a one-stroke lead over the field. Their two-day totals gave them a one-stroke lead over Debbie Austin's 141. Austin shot the day's and the tournament's best round, a 68.

"Really, it was boring," the 39-year-old Whitworth said of her round, which included two birdies, one bogey and 15 pars. "I'm just playing well, thinking out of the hole of the day — for the birdie that gave her a one-under-par 71 and a 36-hole total of three-under 140."

Westchester golf classic surprise: 3-under Sabo

HARRISON, New York, Aug. 19 (AP)—Ed Sabo swept past Jack Nicklaus with birdies on his last two holes, finishing off a three-under-par 68 that gave him the second-round lead Friday in the $300,000 Westchester golf classic.

"What can I say?" Sabo said after taking the first lead of his career with a 135 total, seven shots under par on the tight, 6,603-yard Westchester Country Club course.

Sabo, 29, in his third year of tour activity, hasn't finished higher than 16th since his rookie season and currently ranks 136th on the 1978 money winning list with $8,837.

German test pilot clears North Pole

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Aug. 19 (AP)—A West German test pilot trying to make the first single-engine trans-polar flight from North America to Europe passed over the top of the world Friday, according to a radio operator in northern Canada.

Dieter Schmitt left Anchorage just before midnight on Thursday en route to Munich, West Germany.

Radio messages from Schmitt were being relayed from a radio station at Cambridge in Canada's Northwest Territories to Edmonton, Alberta, and on to Anchorage.

Don Baders, chief of the Anchorage air traffic control center, said Schmitt's reported position at 10:30 a.m. Alaska daylight time (1930 GMT) was "just east of the pole," roughly 40 per cent of the way on the 4,700-mile route.

No major problems were reported by the 54-year-old Heidelberg adventurer. He reported icing over Deadhorse, Alaska, about four and one-half hours after his departure on the 32-hour flight. But he had anticipated this problem and descended from 10,000 feet to 9,000 feet.

WITHDRAWN: Nancy Lopez, the sensational newcomer on the LPGA circuit this year, pulled out of the tour's Dearborn, Michigan tournament Thursday with a sore shoulder. Lopez has already won eight tournaments this year.

Canadian championship has Wadkins in the lead

VANCOUVER, Canada, Aug. 19 (AP)—Lanny Wadkins, playing 11 of 18 holes in a steady rain, fired a four-under-par 68 Friday and took the halfway lead in the Canadian Professional Golfers Association international championship at Shaughnessy Golf Club.

The 1977 U.S. PGA champion had a 36-hole total of 137, one stroke better than Dale Hayes of South Africa and three strokes in front of Arnold Palmer. Hayes and Palmer also shot 68 Friday.

Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina had the best round of the day — a 67 — and was at 142.

Wadkins, one of the early starters in the rain-delayed round, birdied the first three holes and was three-under at the turn when play was halted for 1 1/2 hours.

He picked up another birdie on the back nine, but missed easy birdie putts on the 12th, 17th and 18th holes.

Manuel Pinero of Spain and Mark James of England, co-leaders after the first round with 68, had trouble on the greens Friday, as did several other players. Pinero fired a 77 for a 145 total, while James struggled to a 75 for 143.

De Vicenzo, 55, had seven birdies and two bogeys for his 67, only one shot off the competitive course record held by Lou Graham of the United States and George Knudson of Toronto.

The 36-hole cut was 153, with 65 players qualifying for a shot at the $20,000 prize in the $100,000 tournament.

Ivie slams, Giants win

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—Mike Ivie's fourth pinch-hit homer of the season a two-out hit in the ninth inning, carried the San Francisco Giants to a 6-5 victory over the Philadelphia Friday night and handed the Phillies their fifth straight loss.

Los Angeles 7, New York 3
In other National League action, Steve Garvey drove in four runs with a single and a three-run homer as the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the New York Mets 7-3.

Cincinnati 8, Chicago 3
George Foster and Johnny Bench belted consecutive home runs in the first inning and Joe Morgan's bases-loaded sacrifice fly provided the go-ahead run in the sixth as the Cincinnati Reds beat the Chicago Cubs 8-3.

Pittsburgh 6, Houston 3
Spedsters Frank Taveras and Omar Moreno scored two runs each to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-3 victory over the Houston Astros.

San Diego 3, Montreal 2
Pinch-hitter Gene Tenace's sacrifice fly in the seventh inning capped a two-run rally and gave the San Diego Padres a 3-2 victory over the Montreal Expos.

St. Louis 5, Atlanta 1
George Hendrick's two-run single capped a four-run uprising in the fifth inning, sending St. Louis to a 5-1 triumph over the Atlanta Braves for the Cardinals' 11th victory in 14 games.

Texas 4, Kansas City 3
In the American League, the Texas Rangers scored four unearned runs and beat the Royals 4-3 behind Doc Medich's pitching.

Milwaukee 2, Detroit 0
Gorman Thomas lined a two-run, second-inning double to lead the Brewers to a 2-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Chicago 7, Cleveland 1
A two-run triple by rookie Mike Squires and a two-run homer by Ralph Garr highlighted a four-run first-inning rally that helped the Chicago White Sox to a 7-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Minnesota 4, Toronto 3
Glenn Adams doubled to score Hosken Powell and give the Minnesota Twins a 4-3, 10th-inning victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

New York 6, Seattle 1
In late American League action on the West Coast, Ed Figueroa held Seattle to four hits and Mickey Rivers drove in one run and scored another as the Yankees defeated the Mariners 6-1.

Boston 6, Oakland 3
Jim Rice had four hits—including his 30th homer of the season—and scored three runs, including the go-ahead tally, as the Boston Red Sox beat the Oakland A's 6-3.

Prague police stay discreet for anniversary of invasion

PRAGUE, Aug. 19 (R) — Two water cannon and two armored cars parked outside Prague's central police station were the only unusual signs Saturday of tighter security in advance of the 10th anniversary of the Warsaw Pact incursion into Czechoslovakia.

Two green-uniformed policemen leaned casually against the St. Wenceslas statue — focal point of demonstrations in the city center against the invasion — in a generally discreet and low-key watch on the capital.

Police carried out spot-checks on cars and on people shopping for the weekend or sunning themselves in the square — in fact a long boulevard lined with shops and cinemas.

Dissidents said they had been warned during the last month that they risked arrest unless they were outside Prague for Monday's anniversary.

Many said they were taking an extended weekend off in the countryside. They expected little public attention would be paid to the anniversary which ended the liberal reforms of Communist Party leader Alexander Dubcek.

The authorities have announced no ceremonies, but Czechoslovakia's official press continues to hail Aug. 21 as the day that saved Prague from an imminent right-wing take-over.

Under a banner headline proclaiming "an indivisible alliance," Communist Party daily "Rude Pravo" Saturday again paid tribute to the Soviet Union for what it called its military assistance when socialist achievements were threatened.

Murder charge over Botswana shootings

GABERONES, Aug. 19 (AP) — The black platoon commander of the Botswana Defense Force responsible for killing two white South Africans and a British student on March 29 has been charged with murder, the attorney-general's office announced Saturday.

The announcement, on Radio Botswana, relates to investigations into the circumstances of how the three died after they were picked up by a Botswana army patrol as alleged spies.

Nicholas Love, of Britain, and William de Beer and Michael Arden of South Africa were initially alleged to have been shot while trying to escape.

De Beer and Arden were game rangers at local Botswana tourist parks and Love was visiting during school holidays. They were picked up by the patrol after local reports that Rhodesian troops were in the area and were shot shortly after being detained.

The daily accused Western circles of trying to cast doubt on Prague's close alliance with Moscow and depicting Czechoslovaks as politically stupid.

But Western Communist organizations Saturday denounced what they called repressive measures in Czechoslovakia and demanded the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Czechoslovak soil.

In London, Britain's tiny Communist Party issued a statement calling on Czechoslovakia to stop persecuting citizens who took a different view from that of the authorities.

In Vienna, dissident supporters of the Czechoslovak "Charter 77" human rights manifesto have announced plans for exhibitions illustrating the events of August 1968 and protest actions to coincide with the anniversary.

Nobre da Costa picks four men for cabinet

LISBON, Aug. 19 (R) — Portugal's independent prime minister — designate, Alfredo Nobre da Costa, Saturday rejoined his family holidaying in the sunny Algarve for the weekend after picking at least four key ministers for his prospective non-party cabinet.

Before being formally appointed to head the country's ninth government since the 1974 revolution, he still has the delicate task of completing a 15-man cabinet which would not arouse the open hostility of the Socialists of outgoing Prime Minister Mario Soares or the Communists, who control most organized labor.

A rejection vote in parliament backed by the two parties would mean sudden death for the new government, as the Socialists with 102 deputies and the Communists with 40 command an absolute majority in the 263-seat assembly.

Communist leader Alvaro Cunhal, in a moderate speech in a packed Lisbon bull ring Friday night, said his party's attitude, and whether it would move a hostile vote, would depend on Nobre da Costa's cabinet and program.

The Socialists, angered by President Antonio Ramalho Eanes' dismissal after the Conservatives walked out of his six-month-old government last month, take a similar attitude.

Cunhal voiced serious reservations about 55-year-old Nobre da Costa, a business tycoon who upset the Communists while industry minister in the Socialist-led government last year. Socialist distaste was reflected in a statement by party spokesman Jorge Campines that Portugal needed a government, not a board of directors.

Four of his projected 15 cabinet members seemed certain. Bank of Portugal governor Jose da Silva Lopes, a 46-year-old economist, confirmed he had accepted the post of finance minister, and Col. Mario Firmiano Miguel, also 46, will carry on as defense minister.

The authoritative "Diario de Noticias" named a young oil company executive, Pedro Pires de Miranda, as minister of trade and tourism and Fernando dos Santos Manojos as minister of industry and technology — Nobre da Costa's job last year. Santos Manojos, an independent, was secretary of state for industry under Dr. Soares.

Prince of Savoy in court after rifle incident

BASTIA, Corsica, Aug. 19 (AP) — Prince Victor-Emmanuel of Savoy, a well-known member of Europe's jet set, appeared before a magistrate Saturday after wounding a young German with a rifle in a squabble over a missing boat.

The prince insisted to the magistrate in Ajaccio, the Corsican capital, that it was an accident, and said he carried the rifle for protection from Italy's Red Brigade terrorists.

But he was charged with assault and battery and possession of a firearm and ordered held in prison while the investigation continued.

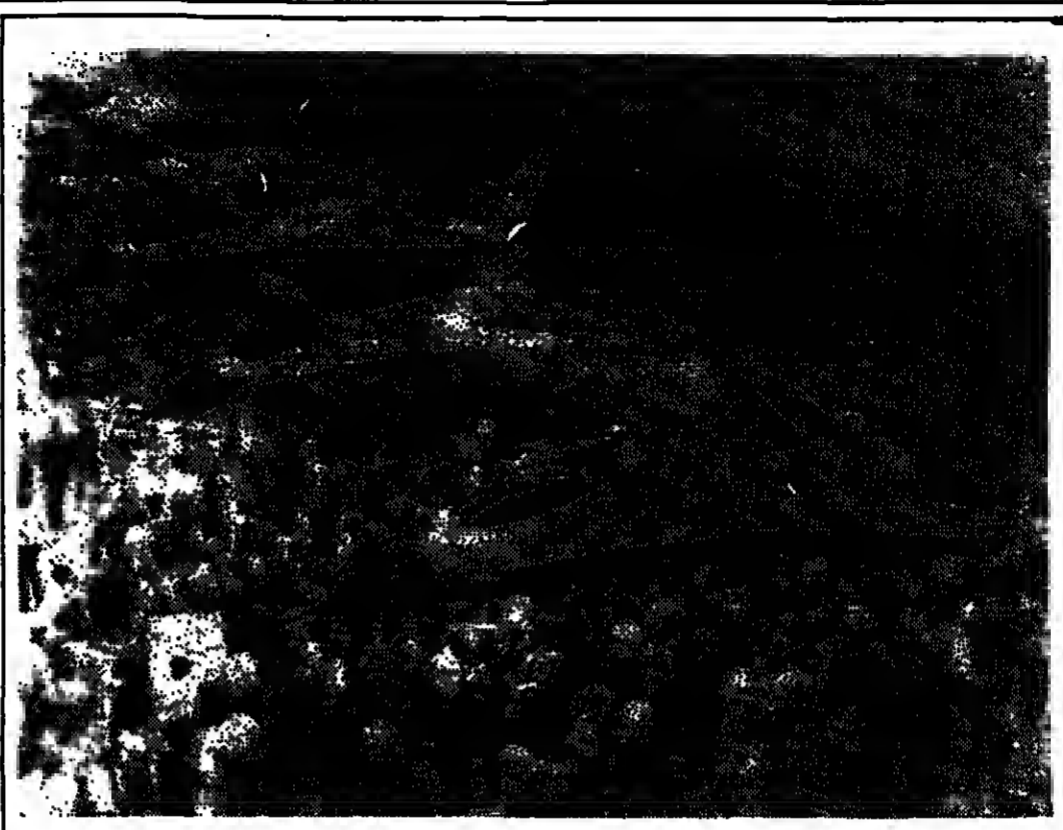

In his interrogation, the prince of the now defunct kingdom of Savoy said the shooting of Dirk Geerd Hammer, 19, was accidental.

Police said Victor-Emmanuel told them the incident started Thursday night when he noticed that the dinghy moored to his yacht was missing.

He then spotted the dinghy attached to another yacht containing a party of Italian tourists off Cavallo, near the southern Corsican town of Bonifacio.

He chased the yacht in a rowboat, and one of the Italians, identified as Nicola Bende, son of a Rome doctor, jumped aboard the craft and a tussle broke out.

The prince said he fired one warning shot in the air, and then the gun went off accidentally, wounding Hammer in the thigh.

Peking gives Hanoi proposal on future of ethnic Chinese

TOKYO, Aug. 19 (AP) — China presented a four-point proposal to Vietnam Saturday on solving the problem of Chinese residents in north Vietnam, Peking's official Hsinhua news agency said in a Hanoi dispatch.

Hsinhua said the proposal was submitted by Chung Hsiung, leader of the Chinese delegation, at the third session of the Sino-Vietnamese negotiations.

Chinese officials claim about 160,000 "persecuted" Chinese have already returned to China from Vietnam. Since May more than 10,000 Chinese have applied to return, Hsinhua said, but the Chinese Embassy issued return permission only to those who had been "persecuted and deprived" of all means of livelihood and whose parents or children had already returned to China.

But Vietnam Saturday marked the 33rd anniversary of the August revolution with newspaper commentaries appealing to people to be ready to fight a possible large-scale war against "international reactionaries," the Voice of Vietnam reported Saturday.

The army newspaper "Quan

Doi Nhan Dan" called on the people and the armed forces to "fight resolutely to win victory in the southwestern border war and stand ready to fight a large-scale war of aggression."

Neto arrives in Zaire to embrace by Mobutu

KINSHASA, Aug. 19 (AP) — Zaire President Mobutu Sese Seko embraced President Agostinho Neto of Angola as Neto stepped off his plane Saturday for a three-day visit heralded by Zairean and Angolan officials as the end of the three-year feud between the two Central African nations.

Thousands of Zaireans joined officials and diplomats at Kinshasa's N'djili airport to greet Neto, who was preceded by 97 of his officials.

Neto, who was to start his talks with Mobutu Saturday evening, made no statements on his arrival. Zaire officials said he was not expected to make any declarations before Sunday or Monday.

Zaire has been involved in a cold war with Angola since the former Portuguese colony became independent in 1975, and that dispute has been entangled with high-power rivalry in Africa.

Zaire, heavily aided by the United States, Belgium, France and other Western nations, backed pro-Western movements like UNITA and FNLA. Neto's Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola — MPLA — supported by the Soviet Union and Cuba, triumphed and has since ruled the country.

Tension grew, first in 1977 and then in May this year when exiled opponents of Mobutu crossed from Angola into southeastern copper-producing Shaba province, an area that has been in conflict with the central government virtually since the first days of the former Belgian colony's independence in 1960.

Argentines show class to start British League football season

LONDON, Aug. 19 (R) — Osvaldo Ardiles and Ricardo Villa captured all the attention on the opening day of the English soccer season when they helped their new club Tottenham Hotspur draw 1-1 away to the reigning First Division champions Nottingham Forest.

On a blazing hot afternoon almost 42,000 excited fans squeezed into Forest's city ground and the start was delayed for 15 minutes when hundreds of spectators spilled on to the pitch.

Two policemen, mounted on white horses, herded the fans back onto the terraces and the soccer action began, with Villa and Ardiles making a nervous start.

Forest swept into the attack and after 13 minutes their Northern Ireland international Martin O'Neill smashed the champions into the lead after Tottenham's goalkeeper Barry Daines had fumbled John Robertson's cross.

"What a waste of money" the Forest fans chanted as the his United African Nations Council, he said he was against an all-party approach to Rhodesia's problems, neither was he prepared to transfer power from the interim administration to the externally-based Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance of Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe.

The remaining member of the government's executive committee, Sithole, has refrained from making any major statement on the issue, but he said recently that the all-party meeting was a possibility.

Transitional government ministers have admitted that the one-man-one-vote elections, planned as a preliminary to majority rule at the end of the year, could not be held if the war continued at its present level.

But the government and guerrilla leaders still differ on the crucial issue of controlling the army in the transition to independence.

Mugabe reiterated Thursday that they wanted to control the armed forces in the transition stage and bring in their own men.

Chief Jeremiah Chimure, a partner in the transitional government with Smith and Black nationalists Abel Muzorewa and Ndabaningi Sithole, Friday called directly for all-party talks, saying the majority of people in Rhodesia wanted one.

Muzorewa has recently voiced the strongest opposition to the conference from within the transitional government, but even he appears to have moderated his earlier line of outright rejection.

Writing in the journal of two Argentine internationals struggled to find their form, but the home supporters were silenced in the 27th minute when the swarthy Villa crashed home the equalizer from close range.

It was a dream debut for Villa, who hugged by a delighted Ardiles. Both players grew in confidence and could be extremely pleased with their first League game in England.

The quickest goal of the new season was scored by West Bromwich Albion's Alister Brown who put his side ahead against Ipswich after only 20 seconds.

Ipswich, who won the F.A. Cup last May, recovered from the shock to equalize through Clive Woods but Tony Brown hit back to give West Bromwich a 2-1 victory.

Goals by Kenny Dalglish and Steve Heighway ensured Liverpool, holders of the European Cup, a fine start with a 2-1 win over Londoners Queens Park Rangers.

Paul McGee equalized after

Dalglish had put Liverpool ahead but Heighway popped up 13 minutes from time to snatch the winner.

Scottish internationals Joe Jordan and Andy Gray were quickly on target. Jordan scored in Manchester United's 1-0 victory over Birmingham, while Gray performed the same feat in Aston Villa's single-goal win against Wolverhampton.

One of the most exciting matches was in London, where Arsenal drew 2-2 with managerless Leeds United.

Leeds hopes to persuade former Glasgow Celtic boss Jock Stein to take over next week, but there was no lack of leadership on the pitch where England international Tony Currie was in superb form.

Currie put Leeds ahead after six minutes with a typical 20 yard shot that flew past Pat Jennings. Arsenal, hoping to mount a strong championship challenge, roared back with two goals from little Irish wizard Liam Brady, his first a penalty.

principles would solve nothing because "there are general terms and afterwards have to be adapted to concrete conditions," but he said the parties may formulate "guidelines" at Camp David.

Rabin said there was a better chance of achieving peace through a territorial compromise, but Dayan said, "I don't know of a territorial compromise that would be good for us and acceptable to the Arabs."

Egypt has rejected the idea of a territorial compromise.

Dayan said there were more "common points" between Egypt's ideas and Begin's peace plan.

Egypt also rejects the peace plan which calls for Egyptian Sovereignty in the Sinai peninsula and limited autonomy for the West Bank and Gaza Strip, with a continued Israeli military presence in those areas.

"The content of the plan is that the Arabs will be independent and run their affairs by themselves," Dayan said.

the U.N. force's mandate."

While declining to go into details of his talks with Urquhart, Butros said they could be summed up in two points — the difficulties preventing the deployment of UNIFIL according to the U.N. resolution and the close cooperation which should be established between the Lebanese Army and the U.N. force.

"The latter came to help the Lebanese Army and ensure the return of the state to the South," he said.

Urquhart conferred Saturday evening with Lebanese Prime Minister Salim Hoss.

Dr. Hoss said after the meeting that Urquhart's visit was an expression of the determination of the United Nations and its secretary general to help Lebanon extend its legal authority over the South.

They discussed the status of the Lebanese Army unit in the South and diplomatic efforts being made to ensure its deployment in the face of Israeli resistance.

four years.

It stressed the importance of Palestinian unity and said democratic dialogue will be adopted to resolve "political contradictions" in the commando ranks.

The statement came a week after 160 people were killed by an explosion which destroyed an eight-storey building in Beirut which housed the military command of the Palestine Liberation Front (PLF), a pro-Iraqi commando group.

Palestinian leaders later accused U.S. and Israeli agents of setting off the blast to exploit differences within the commando movement.

attack on Chinese policies from the official Soviet News Agency Tass in a dispatch from Peking Friday night. The Tass report was widely published in the Soviet press Saturday.

Hua, who is also due to visit Iran on his way home, came to Constantia after touring Romania's oil-producing area north of Bucharest and an engineering plant in Tasov.

each other — appeared to have been planted with the intention of causing structural damage rather than casualties.

Six five-pound (two kilo) bombs were placed along the perimeter walls and fences of barracks housing some of the 55,000 British troops stationed in West Germany. All the targets were in the state of North Rhine-Westphalia between Moenchengladbach and Minden 120 miles (200 km) to the north-east.

The wave of bombings was the biggest coordinated attack on British troops in Germany since the end of World War Two.
